BICYCLE EVENTS TO BE RUN TO-DAY

Amateur and Professional Races Will Be Held at World's Fair Stadium.

SIX CONTESTS ON PROGRAMME

Champions Kramer and Hurley to Participate and Other Crack Riders Will Be Seen-Consolation Prizes Offered.

The Olympic cycling tournament, which begins this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at the World's Fair Stadium, will bring together the greatest gathering of amateurs and professionals ever held in the West. The entry list includes the names of all the prominent riders now following the national circuit.

The programme consists of six events two professional, two amateur, one novice and one consolation professional, open to riders who have not won more than $5 in each of the championships or handleaps. The purse of this race amounts to $150 and will be divided into $50. $25. $15 and $19. The winners of trial fleats will receive $5, while the second men in the heats will receive $5. The half-mile amateur national championship event will be the feature of the amateur class. Michael Hurley, representing the New York Athletic Club, who is the national champion, will be the tavorite in this event. While there are many other good men competing, it does not seem that they can overcome the fittle champion. Gold, sliver and bronze medals will be the prizes to the first, second and third in this event.

The professional mile event will be a handicap, affair with Kramer on scratch. F. A. McFariand and John Bedell are considered by the handicapper to be Kramer's hottest competions, and each will have a lead of twenty Yarus over the champion. The handicaps run from twenty to 130 yards, and Kramer will have to do some husting to overcome them.

Hurley is on scratch in the half-mile amateur handicap.

CORBETT WILL DEPART FOR SAN FRANCISCO THIS MORNING

Many Fans Regret Pitcher's Action in Leaving the Cardinal Team

The announcement that Pitcher Joseph A. Corbett had gult the Cardinals, printed exclusively in The Republic yesterday morning, created a sensation in local sporting circles yesterday. Hundreds of sporting circles resterday. Hundreds of fans expressed regret at the Californian's decision to return to the land of flowers and sunshine.

Little groups of fans around the baseball headquarters expressed their sorrow at the loss of the Coast Leaguer. This morning at 9 o'clock Corbett will depart for his home in San Francisco, Cal. With him will go the best wishes of thousands of St. Louis baseball fans.

Popular to an extent usually unknown to baseball players, Corbett endeared himself more to the fans by his manly action in asking for release at a time when he thought he was not making good. Not many fans shared Corbett's opinion. All baseball enthusiasts considered him one of the best pitchers in the National League. Of course, they admitted that he had not won the majority of his games, but nearly every fan knew that Corbett pitched sensational, although losing, baseball.

His feat of fanning twenty-eight bats-had not won the majority of his games, but nearly every fan knew that Corbett pitched sensational, although losing, baseball.

His feat of fanning twenty-eight batsmen in three games is practically a record for a right-hander.

Corbett held a two hours' conference with F. deHass Robison yesterday.

The result of the conference is not known, but is generally believed that Corbett came out of the private sanctum of the president of the Cardinals office released unconditionally. In no quarter is Corbett's going more generally mourned than in the inner circle of baseball.

When James McAleer read the story in The Republic he was dumfounded.

"I am really surprised at Corbett's action," said he. "I consider him one of the greatest pitchers in baseball to-day. He has every pitching asset that a twirler can desire. His curves are great, his speed good and his control above the ordinary. Corbett is a great pitcher and he will prove his worth when he regains his health.

"I consider him a master workman, a gentleman, and his loss to major league company is to be sincerely regretted."

Jack O'Connor, who was out in uniform yesterday with the Browns, was also surprised at the news of Corbett's release.

O'Connor has received the greatest pitchers in the business for nearly two decades, and this is his opinion of corbett.

"Corbett released? Well, I should imagine that I am surprised. I know the pitchers of both leagues, and I think Corbett has 'more' than any man in the National League. His curves are marvelous, and his speed and control are all that could be wished for. I am unable to understand why he lost more games than he won. He certainly pitched great ball in the majority of his games, and should have won them.

"I watched Corbett's games carefully, because I batted against him when he was the marvel of the National League, and I think his work was of a high order. I can truthfully say that there is not a club in either major league but could fird Joe Corbett a valuable asset. He is one of the greatest pitchers I have ever known, and if he is in condition now there is no pitcher in the National League who can outwork him. As a kid with the Baltimores he was the best pitcher with the Orioles and the best pitcher in the League."

Corbett has an offer to play with the Frisco Club of the Pacific Coast League and may probably recent. It is inderstood that F. deHass Robison has secured the consent of the rest of the National League clubs to allow Joe to finish the season on the coast.

General Racing Notes. Although it was announced that Jockey W. Davis was to go East for the Saratoga meeting, in the hope of getting mounts at that course and thereby making an opening for himself on the Eastern turf, it has been decided that he will remain in the West, for the present, at E. S. Gardner has obtained the first call on his services, and the youngster will ride for the Southern turfman when his weight makes him desirable. He is one of the ligntest boys at the track and rode Potter and Pourquoi Pas to victory yesterday. Save for slowness at the post, which may be due to inexperience, he assume to be doing fairly well in the saidle.

Although the crowd at the Pair Grounds was distinctly lighter than that of last Monday, play in the betting ring was heavier than the tertious week and afforded ample work for hirry-two books. Moreover, the absence of the lam on sters and aliese of the stand made the surroundings much more attractive yesterday than at any time since the meeting opened. Two or three Union track bookmakers were conspicuous figures in the ring, and quite an accession of new faces was noticeable, as a senit of the closing down of the Carmody track.

Turrando, from the Gots Stable, has proven a distinct disappointment to his stable this ear. Although the gray colt showed rather form as a Frear-old, his improvement the closing race and won ranger and there.

Chris was rather doleful last Saturday. He said that he had lost on the day, in casual conversation. Investigation revealed the fact that he had only won about $100 on the day. If the average racegoer could class this as a issing day, the racing game would have to place a limit on its attendance—and, at that the fonces would be broken down by the crowds trying to get in.

Secretary McFarland of the New Memphis Jockey Club was a visitor at the Fair Grounds vesterday. Mr. McFarland is now representing the Kansas City Jockey Club and states that the prospects for the new course are of the brightest.

"The association is not afraid to spend money, either in purses, equipment or fittings," said Mr. McFarland, "and we believe that we will have a turf center in Kansas City before long. The opening meeting was such a grand success that we have great hopes for subsequent race meets,"

Chicago, Il., Aug. 1.—Jockey Milton Henry was suspended by the Harlem officers to-day for alleged careless riding. The penalty came after the fifth race, when Miss Inex, on whom Henry had the mount, stopped badly in the last fifty vards and lost the event by a head to Flaxman.

Arrangements have been made by President Batelelder of the National Cycling Association whereby the cycling races will be completed by Friday and Saturday will be given to the Bohemians of the city. They will strive hard to make Saturday a much larger one than the German's had last month. It is expected that more than 1.00 gymnasts will compete in the different events.

Jaz. O. Miller, member of the Forty-third General Assembly, writes from Belleville, III., most and May II. 1891:

"After having been afflicted for five years and undergoing three operations for Piles and Fistula I learned of Drs. Thornton & Minor. Two very mild treatments from them and I was pronounced cured and have not been troubled with either piles or fatula sincs. From my experience and from that of some 300 I came in contact with while there, I found that they will do just as they say they will, and in no instance do they demand say pay until you are satisfied of a cure."
